

KETCHELL WINS FIRST ROUND

PUTS TWIN TO FLOOR FOR COUNT

Two Knockdowns in the Opener Is Two Much for Sullivan.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—It was all over in the first round this afternoon at the Mission street arena. Ketchell put Twin Sullivan to the floor twice in the opener and the man from Chelsea was counted out by the referee.

Referee Roche summoned the men to the center of the ring and gave them their instructions. Time called at 7:41 p. m.

The look hands and danced about the ring feinting. Ketchell missed left for somersault and then floored Sullivan with a scissor right to the chin. When Sullivan got up he was immediately sent to the mat again for the count.

Yet he went after his men like a demon. A right hand pinch to the stomach doubling Sullivan up like a jack knife. He hit anything on the floor and was counted out by referee Roche.

Y. M. Choyinski and Ivan Truscott of Astoria were ten rounds in a draw in preliminary in Coffroth's arena. Fred Waid was originally killed by Ivan Truscott but injured his hand and Choyinski was substituted.

Sullivan was the first to enter the ring for the main event. He was followed by Ketchell and both shook hands.

POLICE MADE HIM SWEAR AWAY LIFE OF MAN, BOY CONFESSES

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS) CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Eighteen year old Jerry M. Veral whose testimony more than any other persons served to convict the Bohemian fortune teller Herman Bilik of the murder of the members of the Veral family has it is announced today, recanted and in an affidavit declares that the testimony was perjury.

Bilik is under sentence to be hanged March 20. The Supreme Court Thursday affirmed the judgment destroying the man's last chance unless Governor Deneen shall issue a pardon.

Not only does the Veral boy impugne his own evidence but he declares two of his relatives also lied in the affidavit the boy states that all the vital part of the testimony he gave against Bilik at the trial was perjury that was taught him by a high police official and an assistant State attorney.

Threatened by Police H. names the men whom he accuses. In the affidavit Veral who is now a student in Valparaiso, Indiana, states that he told the story because a police official threatened him with a charge of murder unless he did as the police wished him to do.

'Baby' John's Poison Plot Story Greatly Impresses the Officials

WEAVERVILLE RESERVOIR, WHICH, ACCORDING TO "BABY" JOHN MARTIN'S STORY, WAS TO HAVE BEEN THE MEANS OF POISONING THE RESIDENTS OF THE TOWN.

SAY FAKE SAILOR IS BOLD ROBBER

Peddler Masquerades in U.S. Navy Uniform and Police Think Him Highwayman.

(Special to The Tribune) SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—Policeman Boland this morning arrested William Marshall a peddler who has been masquerading in sailor's uniform and whom the military authorities have been extremely anxious to locate.

The local police are of the opinion that Marshall has been perpetrating numerous holdups on the Bay Bridge. Many of the victims who have reported robberies to the police from that section during the past few months have stated that they were held up by a man in the uniform of the United States Navy and it is believed that Marshall is the man.

When questioned by the arresting officer as to why he had on a sailor's uniform Marshall doggedly replied that the only way he could make any money was by holding up people in the uniform of a sailor.

Half a dozen families suffered the total loss of their household goods and personal effects.

Nearly a score of women entered into a lively dispute, and charges and counter charges as to who was responsible for the starting of the fire attracted a crowd of over 1000 spectators.

NOTED BISHOP IS CALLED BY DEATH

The Rt. Rev. H. V. Satterlee Succumbs to Pneumonia After Illness of Few Days.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The Right Rev. Henry Yates Satterlee D. D. for the past twelve years Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Washington died at his residence here today. He was sixty-five years of age. Although threatened with the grippe, Bishop Satterlee officiated at services last Sunday morning.

Shortly afterwards his condition became acute and a physician was called in. During the early part of the week he improved somewhat and it was thought he would speedily recover but pneumonia developed and for several days his condition caused concern.

He passed away shortly before 8 o'clock this morning. Bishop Satterlee was formerly rector of Calvary Church in New York, was a religious writer of note and had been elected but declined to accept the Bishopric of Michigan and the Bishop coadjutorship of Ohio.

Arrangements for the funeral have been made.

TRUSTEE'S AUCTION SALE OF JAPANESE ART GOODS AT THE FUJI, 961-963 WASHINGTON STREET.

H. W. GOETZE, WHOSE LIFE WAS THREATENED BY MRS. MARTIN.

less of the fact that today is the anniversary of the birth of Washington, Detective Hodgkins and Assistant District Attorney Donahue who have come for the purpose of looking into the merits of the story told by 'Baby' John Martin in the attempt made by him to blow up the home of Judge Ogden in Oakland on the night of March 19 of last year continued the examination of the boy and the woman. The visiting officials say that they had not as yet traversed all the ground they had laid out for the inquiry and that they would not communicate anything to the press until they had fully decided what they proposed to do.

Messrs. Hodgkins and Donahue visited the reservoir which according to the lad's story was to have been poisoned by himself at the instigation of Mrs. Martin as soon as the water should get low enough to enable him to place the poison which was to have been exhaled of potassium near the pipe so that there would be no doubt that the deadly dose would have the desired result—the poisoning of the people of this city.

The reservoir is about twenty-five feet in width and its greatest length is about 100 feet. It was filled to the highest point—that is up to the level of the safety pipe—the water being perfectly clear affording a view almost to the bottom. The reservoir has a capacity of 250,000 gallons and is a private enterprise being owned by W. W. Young.

Messrs. Donahue and Hodgkins were impressed with the feasibility of the murderous scheme in the event that the water should be released to a deep level when it would be possible for the boy to put the poison near the pipe through which the city receives its supply of water. Such a thing it is held would not be possible at the present time for the reason that there is too much water in the receptacle.

The men had made their entrance by climbing through a window into an empty room and from there went into the hallway to commence operations. They were about to ascend the stairs to the upper floor when Rubino whose room is opposite quietly opened his door and with his revolver pointed at their heads made them throw up their hands.

FRENCH OFFICER IS FOUND GUILTY OF TREASON

To Be Degraded and Imprisoned for Trying to Sell Naval Secrets.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS) TOULON, France, Feb. 22.—Charles B. Ullmo an ensign in the French Navy has been found guilty by a court martial of attempting to sell naval secrets of a foreign power and sentenced to life imprisonment in a fortress and to be degraded from his rank.

The court decided unanimously that Ensign Ullmo had abstracted military documents involving the security of the state and had communicated them to a foreign power with the view of selling them. He had not however actually disposed of the papers.

Council for Ullmo practically admitted the facts as charged but asked for clemency on the ground that Ullmo was a victim of the opium habit and that he had fallen under the influence of an unscrupulous woman for whom he had squandered his fortune and ruined his life. Ullmo was completely exhausted when his sentence was read.

Ensign Ullmo was arrested at Toulon on October 17 on the charge of being a spy. An examination of his effects showed him to be in possession of many valuable documents and letters, including abstracts of a complete signal code and the naval cipher. An army reserve officer named Burton was afterwards arrested at Vendome on similar charges and at Toulon on November 10 five flag-killers of an important association of international spies were taken to custody.

It is believed that all these men were in some way connected with Ullmo's plan. The authorities found evidence that Ullmo had offered to sell information concerning the defense of France to a German agent.

CAPTURES THREE BURGLARS SINGLE-HANDED; USES GUN

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—Awakened from sleep by the noise made by someone forcing an entrance to his house Peter Rubino reached for his revolver and running into the hallway of his home at 27 Hinkley street at 1:45 this morning captured three burglars.

The men had made their entrance by climbing through a window into an empty room and from there went into the hallway to commence operations. They were about to ascend the stairs to the upper floor when Rubino whose room is opposite quietly opened his door and with his revolver pointed at their heads made them throw up their hands.

The burglars complied with his command but after standing for some moments one of them became bold and began to advance toward Rubino. Fearing that they might overpower him he fired a shot over their heads. This attracted the attention of policeman Dougherty, who was standing about half a block away.

Mrs. L. Hallahan Thrown From Seat and Sustains a Concussion of Brain—Chauffeur in Jail.

Mrs. L. Hallahan sister-in-law of Miss Mary Hallahan of this city was probably fatally injured about 2:30 o'clock this morning in a head-on collision between an automobile driven by W. H. Hall and an express wagon on which she was riding at Sixty-third street and Telegraph avenue. Mrs. Hallahan was taken to the receiving hospital where it was found she was suffering from a concussion of the brain. She was later removed to Providence Hospital. Her husband is out for her recovery. Hall was arrested on a charge of drunkenness and high speed driving.

The auto was running northward and struck the wagon full on Mrs. Hallahan was thrown to the street landing on top of Mrs. Hallahan. She escaped injury. The tramster was not injured.

The auto was wrecked in the smash-up and the wagon, the dishes and service were scattered about the street by the impact.

Mrs. Hallahan who is in the catering business, resided at a banquet last night at the Hildred Club in Berkeley and did not complete her duties until an early hour this morning. She had missed all the cars and waited until the express wagon was loaded with the service. She then started for this city occupying a seat on the wagon.

TIE-UP OF ALL BAY SHIPPING THREATENED

Owners and Engineers Fail to Agree

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE) SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—A proposition was made to the committee representing the Ship Owners' Association and the Lumber Company yesterday which if it were carried out would result in the complete tie-up of shipping both in the Oakland and San Francisco water fronts. As the result of the recent meetings of the ship owners and the engineers a tie-up was decided upon and each vessel as it comes in will be temporarily held up by the men on board being discharged. It is hoped by this means to get the engineers to submit to what the owners consider a fair proposition.

The Lumber Company, however, have thus far not come in with the association on this move and is standing somewhat aloof. Some effort has been made to get the company to join forces with the ship owners but without much show of success.

NERVOUS ELKS FEAR JESTS OF BROTHER LODGEMEN

GOOD TALENT AT MINSTREL SHOW

Best Actors of Oakland and Alameda to Take Part in Performance.

When an Elk starts out to do something, he generally does it up brown. So it is that the Elks of Oakland Lodge and Alameda Lodge feel that they have arranged about as good a minstrel show as could be put forth for their "Alibi Minstrel" which will be given on Tuesday evening next at the Macdonough theater.

Recollections of the old minstrel of Oakland Lodge recall a performance that far exceeded most of the minstrel road shows, with the added element of jokes upon prominent local persons. When Alameda Lodge was formed, only a short time ago, the members played headlong into minstrel, found a lot of new material and gave a performance that made the veterans of Oakland Lodge sit up and take notice. It was known that the Oakland minstrel had been good, and it was proved that the Alameda minstrel was good, and it was figured out that the two together would be just about the best ever, and that is what is going to be given on Tuesday night next. The Alameda boys consented to come to Oakland with their show as a foundation, and Max Horwinski, who is the new entertainment genius of Oakland Lodge, gathered together some of the old veterans of Oakland Lodge, and the result is the "Military Minstrels."

Members Are Nervous.

The first part will be largely from Alameda, and by Alameda boys. Billy Hammond will be what Horwinski has chosen to term the "Conversationalist," with Jack Henny, Howard DeLaney, Buck Ward, Harry Branch, Ed Ward and Harry Shad as his men. Horwinski took his pen in hand and (Capt. Freeman, Harry Melvin, Frank Leavitt, Doc Halsey, Billy Baer, Al Hodges, George Frick and the "P. E. B's" are all worried because of what is going to happen to them. A lot of new and local jokes have been arranged, and more than one prominent member of the Elks will feel the weight of the humor of his brothers.

The "Military" portion of the minstrel will first appear in the finale of the first part, which is entitled "The Good Old U. S. A."

The second part will have a lot of the old Oaklanders therein, including Max Horwinski, who has framed up a new script for the first part, and a number of others. Billy Rogers, the "Cowboy Poet," who got his title chasing goats around the hills of his native city, has something that he calls "Native New," but then, Billy comes from Alameda. Max Horwinski is going to tell about the "Evolution of the World," but then, Max, too, comes from Alameda, and does business in Emeryville. The "Newspaper Trio" and "This Quartette" will have several local songs, and the closing spectacle is entitled "Ye Tropics Afloat," and is a particularly good effect.

The show is not alone for Elks, but for their friends as well. While many of the names have been seen before as participating in Elks events, practically all of the material for these minstrels is absolutely new.

Seats are now on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co., at the corner of Broadway and Thirteenth street.

RABBI NIETO DECLARES PROMISES ARE BROKEN

He Refuses, However, to Sign Affidavit Bearing in Tactics of the Graft Prosecution.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—Attorneys defending Abraham Ruef yesterday made public an affidavit which they state Rabbi Jacob Nieto was to have signed, but finally refused to do so.

Attorney Frank J. Murphy for Ruef said: "The affidavit in question was prepared during a conference with Mr. Nieto covering several hours, during which its every sentence was examined separately and subjected to the closest scrutiny by the doctor, so that no possible mistake could be made. Later he declined to sign it."

The partial text of the document given out by Attorneys Murphy and Aeh is as follows: "Jacob Nieto, being first duly sworn on oath, deposes and says: 'I called upon Mr. Ruef at the place where he was detained by the elisor, on Fillmore street, near Green, and during the conversation talked with Mr. Ruef guardedly and about his case. I talked with him about what the prosecution wanted, and was told by Mr. Ruef that he had been approached before that time by Mr. Burns upon the matter of 'coming through,' as Mr. Burns expressed it. 'I thereafter applied to Mr. Burns for leave to take Mr. Ruef to see his mother, saying to him at the time that I believed it would have a good effect upon Mr. Ruef in attaining the ends desired by the prosecution in this matter, and Mrs. Burns said: 'Certainly, take him there.' I will give directions to Mr. Elggy to permit you to do so.'

Then Ruef to Mother.

"I thereupon went down and took Mr. Ruef to see his mother, and it was understood that I should take him alone, but Mr. Elggy came along and I spoke to him about it. Mr. Elggy said he was doing so in order to avoid the censure of Judge Dunne, and that he would remain outside of the presence of Mr. Ruef, myself and his mother."

Mr. Ruef met his mother in my presence, and there again, in the presence of Mr. Ruef and his mother, I urged his mother to advise him to do as I wished him and thereby save her a lifetime of misery and her son a lifetime of imprisonment and his father's life's lives. I also advised her and him at that time that the district attorney was a temporary one, that he would have the friendship of the prosecution, that they were powerful friends, and that he would be able to shortly re-establish himself.

Arrange Night Meeting.

"I and Ruef and myself visited the office of Mr. Henny and there met Frank J. Henny and Rudolph Spreckels and William J. Burns. We waited upon Mr. Ruef and arranged an interview for that night at the office of Mr. Henny. I first interviewed Mr. Ruef and myself were both told and assured by Mr. Henny and Mr. Spreckels and Mr. Burns that they bore no enmity to Mr. Ruef, and that what they were after was 'burnt-ups.'"

"During the interview the possibility that Mr. Langdon might not be re-elected District Attorney came up, and Mr. Langdon and Mr. Henny both assured and stated to Dr. Ruef, myself and Mr. Aeh, that in the event every indictment against Mr. Ruef would be dismissed by Mr. Langdon before his term of office expired."

Pledged Word of Honor.

"Dr. Ruef and myself both stated to the officers of the prosecution—Mr. Henny, Mr. Langdon, Mr. Burns and Mr. Spreckels—in the presence of Mr. Aeh, before going to see the judges that night, that in the event every indictment against Mr. Ruef in this matter and urged Mr. Ruef to accept these terms, provided we obtained these assurances from the judges, that they were to remember that we were pleading our sacred words of honor, and our word as ministers of religion, to Mr. Ruef, that in the event of causing Mr. Ruef to comply with their request and de-

HENNEY LOSES IN RACE WITH DEATH

Officers Vainly Try to Stop Attorney's Wild Ride in Auto Through City.

In a race against death, Francis J. Henney, assistant district attorney of San Francisco, made a record-breaking run yesterday in his automobile through this city to Irvington, where his nephew, Benjamin Henney, lay dying. The attorney lost the race, his nephew having died shortly before he reached Irvington.

Henney's trip through this city was a sensational one, and was both record-breaking and law-breaking. According to several policemen, deputy sheriffs and constables who tried to stop him, Henney, in his own machine, driven by his chauffeur, left the Oakland mole at great speed, and in a matter of minutes was in the city. According to the police that someone was breaking speed laws, Bluecoats hailed him in vain. Sheriffs flourished their arms, but he swept by, and out on the road toward Irvington these officers lined up to stop the speeding machine. They didn't.

When the authorities learned of Attorney Henney's reasons for making his run, orders for his arrest were promptly withdrawn.

Benjamin Henney, nephew of Attorney Francis J. Henney and student at Anderson's academy, Irvington, died yesterday from heart trouble after an illness of three days.

Young Henney came from Tucson, Arizona, where his father is a merchant and mining man. The body will be sent there for interment.

Funeral services at the academy will be held tomorrow. Professor W. W. Anderson officiating.

Fruitvale Seeks Annexation.

The question of annexing suburban territory to the city is again coming to the front. It is prompted this time by suggestion and not by solicitation from within. Up to the annexation election, when Piedmont and the communities on the side of the city to San Leandro creek voted on the proposition, the invitation to join forces came from the municipal authorities. It was defeated at the polls, through a failure to get the necessary two-thirds vote in some parts of the territory described in the annexation proclamation. The administration then decided to adopt the policy of waiting until these suburban communities should learn through further experience that their real interests lay in consolidation with the parent municipality and voluntarily sought to be annexed to it.

Subsequent to the last annexation election Fruitvale made an unsuccessful attempt to incorporate. The sentiment in favor of annexation to Oakland had grown so strong that it was generally conceded that incorporation was impossible and undesirable. Yesterday a delegation of representative citizens from the territory which had rejected incorporation, namely, Fruitvale, Melrose, Allendale and Westall, waited on the mayor to urge the calling of another annexation election in May or June next, declaring that the people residing in these suburban settlements were now ripe for the change. These communities have grown so rapidly within the past year that the necessity for the enjoyment of the privileges and advantages of municipal existence has been forcibly impressed upon them. Time and experience are wonderful educators. In time other communities which physically blend with Oakland will reach the same conclusion by the natural processes which are at work and will in turn be supplicants for annexation. It is quite evident that the territory which ought to be incorporated in Oakland will have to be acquired piecemeal by voluntary agencies and not by any hothouse process of attempting to force the issue.

Nevada's Great Wealth.

For a couple of decades or more Nevada was sneered at because it had been admitted to the Union as a political necessity at a time when it had but a small population and its natural and developed resources were confined virtually to the Comstock lode. It was nicknamed the Sagebrush State because of its apparent agricultural poverty and the predominant vegetation covering its hills and its valleys. When the Comstock's bonanzas were exhausted, it was regarded generally as an irredeemable state of decadence, with a steadily dwindling population and no future before it, except as the abode of the few remnants of the aboriginal tribes, the life indigenous to desert wastes, and a cattle range. Its glory as a silver producer departed with the demonization of the metal. Comparatively few had any faith in the State's industrial regeneration.

Nevada is, however, redeeming itself by leaps and bounds. Its old-time reputation as a silver and sagebrush State is waning. The Federal government's irrigation program is developing dormant agricultural resources. Its hardy prospectors are proving that it possesses unlimited auriferous wealth. The developments of recent years are proving that it is richer in gold than it was in silver in the halcyon days of the Comstock and that it has been misnamed as the Silver State. It promises during the present year to outstrip California as a gold producer and to give Colorado a hard run for the premier position among the list of States yielding the precious yellow metal. Its marvelous wealth is just beginning to be revealed. Discoveries of new mineralized districts, in which gold is the chief metal exposed, are following one another with marvelous rapidity. Communities housed in modern habitations, provided with all modern public utilities, are springing into existence with mushroom growth rapidity in regions where nothing but the coyote, the desert owl and the ground squirrel were a short while ago in sole possession. What will naturally follow in the wake of the first processes of development is the utilization of such few water sources as it naturally possesses and the artificial creation of means of conservation of the rainfall on its watersheds, which has hitherto been allowed to run to waste, and training both on the arid land so that the desert will in reality bloom like the rose. In half a dozen years some of the richest mining camps the Pacific Coast has known within the past forty years have been opened, and, as the recent developments in the Rawhide district indicate, the State's wonderful mineral resources are only just beginning to be unfolded.

Extra Tariff Commission
Secretary Vainly Seeks
His Pay From Congress.

Hon. Jimmy Reynolds of Boston wants his pay. Last year he visited Germany when the expert tariff commission made its investigation, and the controller of the treasury has declined to permit him to receive his stipend during the time he was absent from his assistant secretaryship desk. It has been officially held that he was not on the job.

It was the Secretary of State who originated the tariff commission idea. He also picked Secretary Reynolds as one of the government sleuths who should beard the frankfurter and the limburger in their lairs and bring back ideas about German tariff sentiment. So, in the last dog days, Secretary Reynolds bought another pack of gold-tipped cigarettes and a new suit case and another pair of pajamas and went abroad. He certainly did travel some. And every time he stopped on his rush across Europe to light a fresh Turkish atrocity he mailed a picture postal card representing "Secretary Reynolds at the Moulin Rouge," or "Secretary Reynolds in the Louvre," or something like that. Anyhow, there is a large number of postal cards in the national museum known as the "Reynolds collection."

And to think that while he was having a gay time in Europe he was not getting a cent for it! Of course, Secretary Reynolds did not know at the time that he was not drawing down his monthly stipend. If he had, probably some friend would have sent a last final postcard entitled "Secretary Reynolds in the Morgue."

But the wheels of the administration have been started in the interest of the Hon. Jimmy. Secretary Root has said in diplomatic tones: "He shall be paid." The Secretary was before the House appropriations committee, making an argument. He pointed out that either the Pride of Boston should be paid as assistant secretary of the treasury or as an expert member of the tariff commission.

Up to date the only response of the appropriations committee, which is just now having a spasm of economy, has been "ha, ha."—Washington Corr. Boston Herald.

Whence the Opposition to Bryan's Candidacy for President Comes

The New York World goes so far as to try to prove that Bryan never was anything more than a plumbback Democrat, and in all this it is having the hearty support of such stalwart leaders as Senator Daniel of Virginia and former Governor Douglas of Massachusetts. It is not the old Palmer and Buckner following of 1896, nor yet the leaders who engineered a compromise on Parker in 1904 who are sustaining the World, but those old line Democrats who refuse to admit that Bryan has any valid right to be labeled "Democratic." The anti-Bryan Democrats are even worse organized to defeat his nomination, and even upon the floor of Congress attacks upon the soundness of his Democracy are being made, at the same time it needs no very close study of the situation to see that Bryan is decidedly the favorite of his party as far as the downswore ¾ axing a whole.—Modesto Evening News.

CHICAGO STOCKFARMS SCRAPER MAKING HIS WAY TO THE FRONT IN BIG STRIDES

M'FARLAND IN BESTING WELSH PROVES ABILITY

Clever Lightweight Puts It All Over Briton --Sullivan-Ketchel Meet Today--Fight Permits Allowed.

When Jack Gleason missed the Packy McFarland-Fredde Welsh match, the boxing fans of the city were somewhat disappointed and when it was announced that the lightweight contest at Milwaukee it made the feeling all the stronger that Gleason had allowed a good card to slip through his fingers.

Last night McFarland and Welsh met at Milwaukee and the Chicago boy gave the Britisher such a thrashing that the contest was simply a display of the prowess of the part of Welsh, and an exhibition of how much punching a human being can stand without being put to sleep.

The scribbles in the East have regarded this as the best of the best, and his work of last night would seem to back them up in their accusation, for he peppered Welsh with right and left punches on every allowable part of the head and body but, barring once in the fourth round, Welsh was never put to it's feet.

Welsh Took Beating.

The Chicago lad must have had his opponent in a bad way through most of the contest with the beating he was giving him around the body, for the ringside dispatches all state that Welsh was in a bad way throughout most of the battle, and took a terrific beating about the body. McFarland at all times gave plenty of evidence of his cleverness, which has been highly touted by his admirers, and there is not the slightest doubt that he is a high-class performer, judging by his few contests. However, it seems that he is absolutely a decision fighter and not a knocker out.

Last night he went eight rounds with Welsh without receiving a punch of sufficient force to mark him. In the eighth round Welsh butted him with his head over the left eye, splitting the skin and causing the blood to flow, but barring this mark he came out of the contest unmarked and a winner by a big margin.

The local promoter could do a worse than match McFarland with some good lightweight for San Francisco. We have heard so much about him that we have become curious and even though he says he will have nothing to do with Mr. Joe Gar, we would like to look him over as a probable candidate for the championship.

Ketchel-Sullivan Contest.

This is the day that Stanley Ketchel and Mike Sullivan will meet in the little question of which is the best at fistfist and who is entitled to the long end of the gate receipts. Each man has made up his mind that he will not be the one to pay the long end indefinitely, money and the contest should prove a bitterly fought one.

Ketchel, with the confidence and strength of youth and lasting power, such as only one who has earned his name by hard fighting, will make a wild dash for victory and will only be defeated if his game by being put to the floor for the count by his lighter opponent.

Sullivan, with his years of experience, will enter the ring with an entirely different feeling. He will be ready for all sorts of reverses and no doubt has a plan of battle laid out for every eventuality that the contest might take.

The battle should not be a good one, but an honest fight, one for the winner there awaits other matches with good purses and to the

Eddie Kelly Is Tough Nut

Eddie Kelly is the toughest proposition that Abe Attell has been called upon to face in many a long day, and that the Hebrew champion realizes this is shown by the manner in which he has gone about his training. For Frankie Nell he looked about town and did practically nothing, but as soon as the ink was dry on the articles for the week's go, he jumped aboard a car and took up quarters at Miller's, where he has been putting in the forenoon on the road and the afternoon is well taken up with gymnasium exercise. He will step into the ring on February 23 in far better condition than he has been for many a night.

Attell has seen Kelly go in the East and at one time dropped the remark: "What's the use of taking on hard nuts like Kelly when I can pick up soft meat?" This was over a year ago when the New York promoters wanted to give the featherweight champion a chance against the featherweight champion of the world, and when Abe was cornered he, hot-footed it for Los Angeles.

The Buffalo boxer has had thirty-four fights since he took up the profession and only two decisions went against him—both on fouls. He has never been whipped and has finished thirteen of his men in short order with a knockout. He has a terrible wallop, being built around the shoulders and back like a middleweight. Every fighter who has faced him in the ring has been sent to the mat at some stage of the conflict and Billy Nolan has a $50 bet at even money that Kelly will win Attell inside of ten rounds. "Every time he lands a punch on the jaw a man goes down, even if he don't take the count," said Nolan in discussing his hitting power, "and he surely will soak Attell at least once before half the fight is over."

Johnny Payne is assisting Kelly to get into shape.

It is practically down to a fight today and the only one who could make the required match tonight. He is a legitimate 120-pounder, and 122 pounds at 8 o'clock is a snap for him. Attell will not tackle a 120-pounder or a boxer who has to weaken himself in making weight when he answers there a year ago when he was in the ring with Kelly.

Suffering and Dollars Saved.

E. S. Loper of Marlton, N. Y., says: "I am a carpenter and have had many warts cut out. I tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It has saved me suffering and dollars. It is by far the best healing ointment I ever found. It has healed sores, ulcers, fever sores, eczema and piles; 25c at Osmond Bros., druggists, Seventh and Broadway and Twelfth and Washington streets."

loser nothing but the short end of the purse money.

Fight Permits Allotted.

Luke Marish and Jack Gleason were yesterday allotted the fight permits for the months of April and May respectively. The Ariel Boat Club had a request before the Police Committee, but it was turned down. The majority ruled that as Gleason and Marish had given satisfaction in the handling of the boxing contests they should be encouraged to do the right thing by the public by being given more permits.

Chairman Stafford of the committee volunteered the information that he would be for the above mentioned promoters and Sam Berger just as long as they displayed an anxiety to please the people who pay to see their shows, as the same time Mr. Stafford announced that it was his opinion that a promoter could not make any money in the boxing game unless he was given at least four permits a year, and as there are now three clubs in the field he held that they should be given a chance to get back a little profit on the $1,200 license they had to put up.

This would make it appear that the three clubs already favored by the committee were in line for all the permits to be handed out this year and with this assurance the managers should go ahead and sign up some classy contests for the season.

Gleason will act as a sort of adviser to the brother promoters, and looks to be the big thing in the boxing game this year in San Francisco, but James Wellington Coffroth seems to be losing no sleep over the fact that he is out of San Francisco and has laid his plans to handle some of the big events of the year at Colma.

While in the East Mr. Ellery gained considerable experience, which he will give the Oakland Kennel Club the benefit of when he returns.

The Oakland fanciers intend to hold their show at Idora Park on April 8, 9, 10 and 11, and from present indications they will have the largest entry of dogs ever shown on the Pacific coast.

E. M. Oldham, one of the best experts on dogs in America, has been selected to judge the show of the Oakland Kennel Club. He is noted for his ability as a judge and his impartiality in awarding prizes.

BOER UNHOLZ SAYS THAT GEORGE MEMSIC WILL NEVER FIGHT AGAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Boer Unholz arrived in this city yesterday from Denver. He was accompanied by Emmi Thierri. The Boer had originally intended to go to Milwaukee to see the Packey McFarland-Fredde Welsh bout, but he was detained in Denver longer than he expected.

Unholz declared that George Memsic will never be in the ring again.

There is some color to the Boer's statement from the fact that Memsic has not shown any desire to fight since

IRISH-AMERICANS WILL PROMOTE ATHLETIC GAMES

At the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Irish-American Athletic Club a constitution and by-laws were adopted and the members discussed ways and means of strengthening the club by promoting athletic contests.

A committee consisting of J. C. Nealon, T. Rogers, T. P. O'Dowd, C. Hanrahan and M. Ryan, was appointed to make arrangements for a big field day, which will be held at Ingleside race track on April 26. The club will put on a program including all the regular events of an athletic meet and hurling and Gaelic football games will be played on the sward in the infield of the track.

It was announced that among the sailors of Admiral Evans' fleet that there were many first-class hurling players, and when the warship arrived a committee, of which R. M. Tobin and J. Downey Harvey will be members, will make arrangements for matches between the sailor players and the local teams.

Baseball at College Campus

The Phoenix baseball team of the St. Mary's College will cross bats with the Ganthier and Matts on the college grounds tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Both teams have now rounded into fine form and a fast and snappy game is expected.

The college team this year has not been playing up to their standard, but during the past week the members have been practicing with a vim and from now on it is expected that they will show to better advantage.

Interesting Notes About Racing Matter By LEE DEMIER.

GOSSIP

Derby Day at Emeryville race track will provide many interesting features for visitors to the course. The event which will attract the greatest attention will, of course, be the California classic for three-year-olds, in which one of the classic fields of young performers ever seen on the coast will face the starter. The entries for the big event are unusually well matched this year, and it is preliminary races can be relied upon in forecasting the outcome. There will be a thrilling spectacle when the eight contestants enter upon the critical dash through the stretch. S. C. Hildreth's Meelick showed such recent-breaking form in the early season that the majority of the racing experts have fixed upon him as the probable winner, but the others have an equally excellent case for uncertainty. All of the other events on the card will attract shifty performers, and the dopest is confronted with unusually perplexing problems in attempting to pick out the winners. A unusual interest attaches to the cup preliminary, at a mile and three-quarters, in which some of the speed and gameness horses at the track will sport colors. In addition the Cherry Tree Handicap for speed burners at seven furlongs gives promise of developing into a hair-raising contest.

Jack Crane nibbled at Prince of Orange, which was 23 to 1 to take the fourth race. If Ramsey's horse had run the other way Crane would have cashed.

Amateur Notes

PETALUMA, Feb. 20.—Local fans are already studying the baseball dope and excitement runs high as to the probable line-up of the team to represent Petaluma this year. There are at least twenty-five candidates taking part in the try-out now being held, and when the final line-up is announced this city will undoubtedly have one of the best teams in the State playing amateur ball. Recreation Park is in the finest kind of shape and is faster than ever.

The local season will probably open the latter part of April and already the management has received letters from a number of city teams requesting dates, as Petaluma is famous for the reception given visiting ball players, both of the home players and the fans. The local team will be under the same management and will accord to all visiting teams a square deal as in the past, a fact we are noted for. Only first-class teams will be accommodated this year, and all those considered as such please address H. McNulty, manager, 608 Fair street, Petaluma, Cal.

REVOLUTIONARY OUTBREAK IS THREATENING PORTUGAL

All Public Buildings in Capital Under Military Guard.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LISBON, Feb. 22.—The greatest precautions are being observed in Lisbon to insure the maintenance of order. It is evident that the government fears an outbreak of some kind, but up to the present time no disturbances have been reported. The soldiers are being kept in their barracks. The Duke of Oporto, accompanied by a strong guard, makes frequent inspections of the various government buildings, including the bank of Portugal, are occupied by heavy detachments of the municipal guard. The commerce of Lisbon reflects the secret uneasiness of the people.

El Sena today says that King Manuel, Premier Ferreira, the civil governor of Lisbon, and General Lopez, commander of the municipal guard, had a long conference last night regarding the situation.

Fear Revolution.

This paper expresses the opinion that everything indicates that the government is in fear of armed revolutionary outbreaks.

The political situation in which the government finds itself today is extremely critical and there is much uneasiness as to the outcome. The government is fairly caught between two fires—the renewal of the popular agitation for increased liberties on the one hand and the reactionary conspiracy on the other—and it seems to be trying to fight both at the same time.

Before joining Oakland, however, the citizens desired assurances that the streets and sewers would be improved and there would be ample police protection.

ACCUSES OFFICIALS AT PROHIBITION BANQUET

Rev. E. E. Baker Says Liquor Licenses Are Obtained by Bribery.

"Many bribe our public officials for a license. We have an ordinance now in the City Council for a $1,000 license, but I don't think it will be withdrawn before it is passed. The man who bribes is the dangerous man, and we would give our support to the present fight that is being waged in the extermination of bribery."—Excerpt from the speech of Rev. E. E. Baker at the banquet of the Prohibitionists last night.

Never in the history of Oakland has any temperance gathering equaled the one that was given last night by the Alameda county prohibition committee at the Alpha restaurant, in honor of recent elections in four states—Alabama, Georgia, Oklahoma and Mississippi—which have passed laws forbidding the sale or manufacture of liquor.

Letters from governors of the "dry" states, expressing their satisfaction in the progress of the anti-saloon progress, were read and applauded.

A most prevalent speechmaking music was furnished by the Salvation Army band. Rev. E. Leonardson, state chairman of the Prohibition party, acted as chairman.

The present popular cry for total abstinence in the South is heard," said Rev. George W. White, pastor of the First Methodist Church, "more upon economic and political grounds than upon causes either religious or moral."

In the South, "the Southerners," continued Rev. White, "are realizing that whiskey has the same bad effects upon the negro that it has for the Indians, and it is because they want to protect their commercial interests that they heartily endorse our work."

"This anti-liquor agitation was started by ministers in 1830, and the seed which they planted then is just beginning to bear fruit. Outward motives than moral may actuate people to flock to our side. We care not for that, so long as they enlist under our flag."

The subject, "Abraham Lincoln and Temperance," was discussed by Rev. Wm. D. Simmons, of the Unitarian Church. He stated that "though there is much reason to rejoice because of the recent victories in the South, the real battle must be fought, not so much in agriculture as in manufacturing."

HUSBAND DROVE WIFE INTO STREET IN NIGHT CLOTHES, IS ALLEGATION

Disturbance in Capitalist's Home Brings Police

ALAMEDA, Feb. 22.—According to a report made at the police station this morning by Policeman A. S. Blunk, Henry H. Blood, capitalist, drove his wife from their home at 1247 Sherman street, attired only in a night dress at 1 o'clock this morning.

A telephone message was sent to the police an hour later by the maid at the home, asking if it were known where Mrs. Blood had gone. In his report, Policeman Blunk states he had been attracted to the Blood home by a disturbance there and that while he was approaching the house, Mrs. Blood, scantily attired, had run into the street.

The neighbors had complained to him of the disturbance, he said. Blood had several times been the cause of police reports. Several times he has complained to the police that his wife had abused him, the police say, usually when he was under the influence of liquor, and Mrs. Blood has made like complaints.

BIGAMIST'S FIRST WIFE IS TO ASSIST PROSECUTION

Man Under Arrest in Chicago, Who Betrayed an Oakland Girl, Faces Felony Trial.

George Raymond McCune, who was accused of bigamy by Miss Hazel R. Lewis, a Polytechnic High School student living with her parents at 5599 San Pablo avenue, and who is now under arrest in Chicago on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, will be prosecuted by his first wife, Mrs. Clara McCune, daughter of Postoffice Inspector Sullivan of St. Louis, according to advices from that city.

About a week ago McCune appeared at his father-in-law's house, in St. Louis, insisting on seeing his infant son, William. He was arrested, after exhibiting a pistol in a threatening manner. He later jumped his bond and fled to Chicago, where he was re-arrested and is now held for trial.

The Oakland police were advised of McCune's arrest in Chicago and Miss Lewis was requested to swear to a complaint against McCune, charging him with bigamy, but the young woman, according to her mother, has decided to drop the whole affair rather than revive in the courts a case which almost wrecked her young life. McCune came to Oakland in September, 1905, and was married to Miss Lewis on March 11, 1907, representing himself as single and a man of wealth.

Miss Lewis found letters to McCune from his first wife and, becoming suspicious, sought his arrest at Tracy, where he was in business. He became aware of the young woman's intentions and fled the state. Mrs. McCune of St. Louis learned that her husband was a bigamist through the Oakland police, but when McCune returned to St. Louis he was partially forgiven.

SHE GIVES CHASE TO FLEEING THIEF

Man Captured With Stolen Coin After Being Detected in Daring Crime.

It is due to the bravery and presence of mind of Mrs. H. A. Longfellow, wife of a coal dealer at 520 Third street, that her husband was saved a heavy loss by theft last evening and the would-be thief, Alice Pasmault, was captured and landed in the city prison on a charge of larceny. Pasmault, who has recently been employed by the city as a street sweeper, and who was formerly employed by Longfellow, has been in trouble before, having served a term in the city prison on a charge of petty larceny.

At 5:30 o'clock last evening Pasmault, who was well acquainted with the business methods of Longfellow, entered the coal yard office in Third street and took a purse containing $108 in coin and $307 in checks from a desk drawer. He was uptaking out of the place when seen by Mrs. Longfellow, who had entered the office from a rear room.

Pasmault bolted out of the front door, with Mrs. Longfellow close at his heels. She chased the thief along Third street to Washington, calling "Stop thief! Stop thief!" with the result that a number of pedestrians soon joined in the chase. Deputy Sheriff Fred Westphal, being attracted to the scene by the cries of the woman, soon overtook the fleeing thief and turned him over to Policeman Murphy. The purse and contents were recovered.

MRS. A. E. NASH

ALTOGETHER the largest social affair we have had this winter was the card tournament given at Ebell Hall, for the benefit of the Sunshine Pavilion at Fabiola.

Much has been written about it, and there has been such a genuine interest in the plan, that there is great rejoicing over its success.

It was quite wonderful, the way Mrs. Mark Requa worked, and many of us might learn a lesson from the able planning, and thorough execution of the many plans. Wherever she could do any work herself, Mrs. Requa did it, and none of her burdens found their way to other shoulders. She worked with the most untiring energy, personally attending to every detail that she could, in truth, she carried on her own shoulders the entire work, and her friends are happy and glad that her plan has proven to be so marked a success.

The Sunshine Pavilion is now being built, and Mrs. Requa has the money she hoped to have to pay for it, and everyone is heartily rejoiced.

The returns, of course, are not all in, but every one knows of the success of the tournament, and that means that the Sunshine Pavilion is assured for the little sick children of Fabiola.

It was a big thing for Mrs. Mark Requa to have done—a fine and noble thing—and as a community we have come a long way when we have followed where Mrs. Mark Requa has led us.

There were between four and five hundred players at the tournament, and as they were assigned to different rooms, no one hall looked crowded. Some of the tickets sold were not represented at the tournament, but the public interest was evident in the fact that over a hundred and twenty-five tickets were sold at the door.

The winter has been given up to such an extent to the little card sets, where just a few people meet each other informally, that most people hailed with joy the first large reunion of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Requa, Mrs. Isaac Requa, General and Mrs. Oscar Long, made a family group which arrived early.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Requa received the players of the evening in the wide hall of the club house, Mrs. Requa wearing a very exquisite gown of white chiffon, beautifully hand painted, with a berthe of rare lace.

Mrs. Requa greatly appreciated the efforts of the many friends who made her card tournament so great a success.

Mrs. Isaac Requa was gowned in black chiffon, very effectively made.

There was a busy scene at "Highland's," Mrs. Isaac Requa's home, during the day. A little coterie of good workers gathered there, and under Mrs. Requa's practical direction, hundreds of delicious sandwiches were prepared for the refreshments in the evening.

The tournament owes a good deal of its success to Robert Fitzgerald and to Doctor Pease, Mr. Fitzgerald assisting ably in the bridge room, and Doctor Pease presiding in the hall where "five hundred" was played.

It was due to the able directions of both men that so much order prevailed among such a large number of players.

Mrs. Brown was chairman of the bridge section, which was beautifully managed, and the same thing was true of the bridge and five hundred rooms, where Mrs. Pease, Mrs. George Gross and Mrs. George Percy worked with untiring energy and enthusiasm.

Mrs. Brown wore an elaborate evening dress of black chantilly lace, Mrs. J. Lorin Pease wore a gown of pink messaline trimmed in lace, and Mrs. Gross looked exceedingly well, in a most effective gown in tones of black.

Mrs. Percy's gown was also in black effects, the corsage beautifully trimmed in lace.

Such beautiful prizes have never been known at any tournament in Oakland, and truly they were a goodly sight to see as the players settled down to the games of the evening.

Mrs. Oscar Long, Mrs. R. A. Bray, be proud of the good work which their committee was able to do.

Mrs. Long was most beautifully gowned in white, the costume set off with a becoming white hat, with white violets in the corsage.

She helped to entertain the many guests of the evening in a happy and cordial way, which added to the general success.

With Mrs. Long was Mrs. R. A. Bray, a most attractive study—pretty and unique enough in her white gown and hat to be one of the stunning poster effects of the evening—if she could have posed for it.

The prizes were given in such a perfectly fair way that every one was satisfied, and people took such a long time in choosing the prizes that it was quite one o'clock before some of them left the hall.

And such an animated scene as there was around the prizes. "Which shall I choose?" would ask the anxious winner, and often when she had chosen, she would come back to ask if she might change it.

An onlooker remarked: "I don't know which it is most like—an auction, or a scene from 'The Pitt.'"

Many people went around quite happily armed with prizes for their friends to admire, and rejoicing over the good scores which brought.

Judge Tule made the highest score in the Five Hundred game, and one of the bridge whist prizes, the beautiful cut glass cock tail set from Shreve's was won by Mrs. George Dornin.

ETHICS OF CARD PLAYING.

A card tournament is really a place to study character, and many clever sketches might be drawn therein. One little woman evidently belonging to the last generation said emphatically, "No, I don't play bridge. Five hundred is frivolous, and bridge is for gambling—but whist, now, ah! whist is scientific!" and away she marched head in the air, to the whist room, where it might be remarked, she won a prize. Many of the most prominent people of the city were represented at the tournament. Mrs. Remi Chabot is so popular that she had the usual reception which always awaits her from many friends. With her were Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. Knight and Miss Claire Chabot who received many congratulations on her recently announced engagement.

Mrs. Cliff, Mrs. Lee Cole Burnham, and Miss Jean Cliff who have recently come from Europe were welcomed home by their friends, many of whom met them for the first time since their return at the tournament.

Mrs. Henry Butters was an attractive study in a beautiful Paris gown with ermine furs and she had with her her bright and pretty daughters, Mrs. Bray, Mrs. I. B. Cook, Marie and Marguerite Butters. Mrs. Edward Remillard wore a lovely black lace gown, and Mrs. Joseph Mathews was among the most attractive of the younger matrons. She was also gowned in black lace with diamond ornaments.

Mrs. Oscar Luning was an exquisite study in Dresden silk, the corsage beautifully trimmed in lace. Indeed one could not describe all the very handsome gowns of the evening—everywhere one saw them in evidence.

Among the most effective costumes of the evening, were those worn by Miss Georgia Strong, Miss Florine Brown, Miss Mollie Connors, Mrs. Minor Goodall, Mrs. Charles R. Rowe, Mrs. Q. A. Chase, Mrs. George Darwin, Mrs. Premiss Selby, Miss Florence Selby, Mrs. Edward Walsh, Miss Marian Walsh, Mrs. Charles Houghton, Miss Ruth Houghton, the Misses Kales, Miss Florence Henshaw, Miss May Coogan, Mrs. W. G. Palmanteer, Miss Carolyn Palmanteer, Mrs. Arthur Crellin, Mrs. Edson Adams, Mrs. William Jarvis, Mrs. Gordon Stalp, Mrs. Yorker, Mrs. George Percy, the Misses Percy, Mrs. Frederick Stratton, Mrs. Allender, Mrs. Everts, Miss Ethel

Moore, Mrs. Egbert Stone, Miss Allie Grimes, Mrs. James Allen, Mrs. Harry Knowles, Miss Mollie Mathes, Miss Margaret Sinclair, Miss Lida Stannard, Miss Madeline Clay, Mrs. John Yule, Mrs. Wallace Everson, Mrs. Alfred Eastland, Mrs. A. A. Moore, Mrs. S. A. O'Neill, Mrs. Thomas Crellin, Mrs. James McElroy, Miss Margaret Dunn, Mrs. W. W. Rodolph, Mrs. Arthur Tishler, Mrs. Beach Soule, Miss Florence Selby, Mrs. Sam Breck, Miss Harriet Meek, Mrs. Will Meek, Miss Elsie Schilling, Mrs. A. Schilling, Miss Louise Mahony, Mrs. Laura Bassett, Miss Margaret and Miss Helen Bassett, Mrs. Ernest Boyes, Mrs. Irving Burrell, Mrs. Murray Orrick, Mrs. Harry Thomas, Mrs. Nora Ryle, Miss Ryle, Mrs. W. W. Standeford, Mrs. Rupert Whitehead, Mrs. John Valentine, Miss Elizabeth McNear, Mrs. Hugh Hogan, Mrs. Thomas Hogan, Miss Mona Crellin, Mrs. Robert Fitzgerald, Miss Clarisse Lohes, Mrs. Frederick Stratton, Mrs. McKinnon, Mrs. Charles Woodbury, Miss Ruth Woodbury, Miss Ada English, Mrs. Layman, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Page, Miss Mollie Mathes, Mrs. Harry Knowles. There were many people from Berkeley, among them Doctor Allen and his very pretty and attractive daughter, Miss Ramona Allen.

After the card game refreshments were served under the able management of Mary Hallahan.

At the head of the committee were Katharine Brown and Anita Thompson, who had a bright bevy of well-known girls to help them. The tournament was most successful in many ways and it repaid fully the many efforts of Mrs. Mark Requa to make it a success.

ANENT DR. BELDEN.

In the cables from Berlin to the New York Times is the following concerning the passing of the late Doctor Roy Belden:

Dr. Roy K. Belden of San Francisco, a popular member of the American colony here, has died in Berlin as the result of a chronic illness. His body was cremated at Hamburg on Wednesday. He leaves a widow, who is a daughter of a Berlin banker.

NEW IDEA IN CHARITY.

Something new in the way of charity events was tried in New York last week, at the head of affairs being Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Junior, formerly Virginia Fair.

She had the co-operation of some of the best known women of the New York smart set and realized a large amount for the New York smart set.

They gave a combination of luncheon, matinee and tea—they all lunched at the New Amsterdam Theater and had tea at the Plaza.

The Vanderbilts, Belmonts, Whitneys, Burdens, and Mrs. Herman Oelrichs did most of the planning, and the result was entirely unique in the history of New York charity affairs.

There was a table d'hôte luncheon at Sherry's at $2 each. Half of this was sent to the coffers of the hospital. The streets between Sherry's and the theater became a parade ground for motor cars and smart carriages. At the theater, in the orchestra, sat hundreds of fashionable folk and their maids and footmen. This was the joke of the afternoon. Many who had bought tickets gave them to their servants. Therefore, shoulder to shoulder sat smart women and their friends' maids.

Men in society who smoked between the acts recognized with amusement precisely the same way as their employers.

The entire house had been bought by Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt and donated to the charity. From the matinee the women went to the Plaza for tea. The restaurants and tea rooms had been given to the special "kettledrum" as the entertainment was called.

The unique entertainment scored one of the largest financial successes of the year.

PERFECTNESS PARISIAN TOILETTES.

Those of us who are fortunate enough to have friends abroad, are receiving very interesting letters, with the latest hints in regard to the many details of perfect Parisian toilettes.

And apropos of many of these hints the passing of puffs is to be hailed with joy. They are such sausage like excrescences and they are always several shades off the color of the wearer's natural hair.

There is an improvement also in the way of poisoning hats. These do not slant off the back of the head like a sled half way down a hill, but rest on the top of the head with the back bent toward the hair instead of jutting out like a roof.

Veils are at best but an evil and generally an unnecessary one at that. The latest fad abroad in fastening them is to pin them at the top in the back, with the sides hanging straight all round, so that they fall in their own folds.

The theater muffs now in vogue in London are gradually being adopted in New York. They are of chiffon and lace trimmed with fur and tails and wadded inside.

The muffs are flat and large and inside them are all sorts of pockets, which may be put to good use for carrying many things.

Echoes of the great misunderstanding she had with the Pilgrim Mothers Club still ring through New York, and she was reminded of it at the pier and Mrs. Glyn said by way of good bye:

"No, I did not say that they were cats. The reporters who interviewed me after that affair may have caught my spirit, but they didn't catch my words—all of them.

"The Pilgrim Mothers really reminded me of a lot of sparrows chattering under the eaves. But the outrageous way in which they treated men has not dimmed my admiration for Americans as a whole. On the eve of my departure I must say that I am truly charmed with this country. I have been royally entertained at the country and city homes of so many of your charming society people, some of whom I had met on the other side and some of whom had read my books—and liked them."

She will be back soon, and she is coming directly to California, and among other entertainments planned for her is a reception at the Ebell Club.

Among the distinguished visitors who are expected to the coast this year are Ambassador and Mrs. Tower, who are planning to leave Berlin in the near future. Ambassador Tower is giving up a diplomatic career in which he has been so successful, because he feels that his sons need more of his personal attention.

Many of Mrs. Tower's relatives are here and her sister, Mrs. Leroy Harvey makes her permanent home in San Rafael. Mrs. Tower has traveled far since the days when she lived quietly in Oakland, but she has had the same faculty for making friends which she had as a girl and she has been one of the most popular women in the larger diplomatic circles of Europe.

The Smiths lived quietly here for many years, and Nellie Smith was a very modest, unassuming girl, but of unusual intellectual attainments.

Her talents have won recognition for her in the leading capitals of Europe, and one is proud that an American woman who has won so much distinction should also be a Californian and one is proud too, that her early training should have been received in our city.

One reads that court society in Berlin is looking forward with keen anticipation to the flower ball which will be given by Ambassador and Mrs. Tower at the American embassy on February 15th. Over 500 invitations have been issued and it promises to be one of the most beautiful balls that Berlin has ever seen.

The Embassy palace in the Koenigs Platz will be transformed for the occasion into a huge tower of spring blossoms with artificial sunshine furnished by a unique use of incandescent lighting effects.

The Kaiser and all his family will be present. All the ladies will wear costumes representing various flowers, while the men will carry distinctive boutonnieres. The ball will be the Tower's last elaborate entertainment. The court and diplomatic corps will therefore probably eclipse in

ELINOR SAILS AWAY.

The Ebell Club voted to entertain Elinor Glyn when she came to California, but the members will not be called upon to do so for several weeks to come, for Elinor Glyn has sailed away to England.

Echoes of the great misunderstanding she had with the Pilgrim Mothers Club still ring through New York, and she was reminded of it at the pier and Mrs. Glyn said by way of good bye:

"No, I did not say that they were cats. The reporters who interviewed me after that affair may have caught splendor the long series. One hears that the brilliant affair will be given practically at the personal request of the Crown Prince and Prince Eitel-Friedrich, who enjoyed themselves so heartily at the embassy fancy dress party last season that they urged Mr. and Mrs. Tower to give the younger court and diplomatic set another such good time this winter.

It is now settled that Mr. Tower's resignation will not officially take effect until August. The following months will be spent by him and his family in traveling in France and Italy, so that he will not return to the United States until December.

REIDS AND THE MILLS.

Ambassador and Mrs. Reid and Miss Jean Reid have been enjoying some very restful days at their country home at Menlo. D. O. Mills has been with them, and they have decided all the many complimentary affairs planned in their honor.

They came out for some restful weeks in California, and have enjoyed their winter here. Ambassador Reid is due at his post in London on February 29th and Miss Reid will return to England in March.

BIG BERKELEY RECEPTION.

One of the largest receptions Berkeley has enjoyed this winter was given by the Caedmon and Newman Clubs at the picturesque club house of the latter on Ridge Road. President and Mrs. Wheeler were the complimented guests and the afternoon was in many ways a most delightful affair. The club house was most beautifully decorated in honor of the affair, and it showed an exceedingly fine arrangement of very early spring blossoms and jonquils.

At the head of the receiving party was Mrs. Eleanor Martin of San Francisco, who is the very popular president of the Caedmon Club, and Mr. James Burke, president of the Newman Club. Several hundred guests were presented to President and Mrs. Wheeler during the hours of the reception and Mrs. Wheeler looked specially well in one of the most effective gowns of the afternoon.

Mrs. Wheeler has to attend many receptions in the year, but they never seem to tire her and she is always one of the most frankly cordial of any of the members of a large receiving party.

The guests at the reception were chosen from Oakland, Berkeley, and San Francisco, and the gathering represented one of the most brilliant reunions of the year.

Among the prominent guests of the afternoon were Mrs. Eleanor Martin, Miss Driscoll, Mrs. Henry Butters, Mrs. Inez White, Mrs. Downey Harry, Mrs. Osar Cooper, Mrs. Deane, Mrs. M. H. De Young, the Misses De Young, Mrs. A. M. Rosborough, Mrs.

Joseph Rosborough, Miss Mollie Connors, Miss Anka Thomson, Mrs. Glenn, the Misses Glenn, Mrs. Laura Bassett, Mrs. Hugh Hogan, Mrs. Thomas Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Sullivan, Mrs. William Geer Hitchcock, Mrs. Chilton Jones, Doctor Morrison, James D. Phelan, Miss Phelan, Mr. and Mrs. Garret McEneaney, Professor and Mrs. Stringham, Professor and Mrs. Moses, Professor Hilgard, Miss Hilgard, Mrs. John Francis Smith, Miss Graham, Miss Edith Carew Judge Coffey, Judge Murawsky.

SOCIETY VAUDEVILLE AT YE LIBERTY.

The smart set and the public generally are looking forward with much interest to the "society vaudeville" to be given at Ye Liberty Theater on the evening of March 2d.

The leader in the movement is Mr. Willard Barton, Junior, who does more for charity than any other young man in town.

Mr. Barton has rare talents, but he never "hides them under a bushel" for he is always most generous in helping others and takes endless trouble in bringing plans to a successful conclusion.

The program announces that the "society vaudeville" is to be given to the endowment of free beds for sick and crippled children at the Pablosa Hospital. The young people who have planned the program and who have been rehearsing now for some weeks are Mrs. Beach Soule, Katherine Brown, Ruth Houghton, Florence Henshaw, Mollie Mathes, Mrs. Louis MacDermot, Edna Orr and Katherine Kutz, Willard Barton, Jr., Joseph Rosborough, Vail Bakewell, Lawrence Ertz, Coleridge Ertz, Melvin Jeffress, Frederick Samuels, Shirley Hamilton, George Friend, John Leighton, William Smith, Junior, George Walker, C. F. Sloan, Alec Rosborough, Ralph McCormick, George McDougald, Milton Schwartz, Coman Schwartz and Mrs. Willard T. Barton, Sr.

There are great possibilities in the program, for many of the participants have much talent and a more clever program could hardly have been prepared.

A notable number will be the ventriloquist act as performed at the Christmas links of the Bohemian Club, the leading part of which is carried by Mr. Willard Barton, Senior.

Every one knows how exceedingly clever he is, and his musical compositions in the past have been among the most popular successes of his day.

One hears that "Toodles" is a most amusing comedy, and was written especially for the occasion by George Friend of Ye Liberty Playhouse.

The principal character, John Van Buren, a man of dissipated habits, is to be played by Willard Barton, Junior, and one hears that the scenes are very funny, indeed.

Toodles, the six-year-old daughter, is to be played by Shirley Hamilton, and Mr. George Friend makes a most amusing butler.

In the famous Neapolitan street singers is Mackenzie Gordon, whose rare and exquisitely beautiful voice always calls out the greatest enthusiasm.

It is specially fitted for the Italian folk songs and the street singers with Mackenzie Gordon at their head will be sure to make one of the hits of the evening.

The soloists of the evening will be Vail Bakewell, Mrs. Beach Soule, and Willard Barton Junior. Vail Bakewell is to sing the "Burmah Girl" from the Blue Moon, Willard Barton is to sing "Put Me Among the Girls," from the Hayden and Mrs. Beach Soule is to sing a solo from "Miss Hook of Holland," called "Little Pink Petty from Peter."

She will wear the costume of a little Dutch girl with wooden shoes. Miss Orr and Miss Kutz will also be costumed as Dutch girls. Mrs. Soule will also carry the solo part in "How'd You Like to Spoon With Me."

The chorus girls, Katherine Brown, Ruth Houghton, Florence Henshaw, Miss Mollie Mathes, Miss Katherine Kutz and Miss Edna Orr are to wear effective and becoming costumes and one hears that the dancing is along very graceful and attractive lines.

Altogether the vaudeville is so unique and original that it promises much in the way of amusement, and a crowded house ought to greet the efforts of the young player folk who have practised so hard and have spent so much time in a good cause.

MRS. WILLIAMS' BRIDGE PARTY.

Mrs. Thomas H. Williams was the hostess on Tuesday afternoon at a large bridge party, given in honor of Mrs. Guy Barham of Los Angeles, who is at present visiting Mrs. Williams. The attractive home of the Williams on Pacific avenue was beautifully decorated and there were six tables of bridge. Later other guests came in for afternoon tea, and pretty Miss Muriel Steele, the younger sister of the hostess, presided at the tea table.

ANNUAL MEET OF MILLS CLUB.

The Mills Club gave its annual reception in San Francisco this week, and it was an elaborate affair, since as the years roll by for Mills Seminary, the list of well known alumnae grows longer.

The Mills Club is delightfully established on Bush street, and the rooms were very beautifully decorated in honor of the day. There was an interesting musical program and elaborate refreshments were served.

Among the Mills Alumnae from our side of the bay are Miss Amy Corder, Miss Mabel Gray, Mrs. Felton Taylor, Mrs. William Jarvis, the Misses Laymance.

MRS. LAYMAN'S BIRTHDAY PARTY.

One of the most delightfully informal events of last week was the birthday party given at the home of Mr. William Laymance on Oak street. The gathering was complimentary to Mr. Laymance's mother, whose seventy-first birthday anniversary was celebrated.

Many details were planned to make the day a happy one, and Mrs. Laymance received many pretty gifts from her children and grandchildren. They are all devoted to her and it gave them great pleasure to show her all honor on her happy seventy-first anniversary.

There was a large family dinner in honor of the day at the William Laymance home, and the house was lovely with many flowers sent in honor of the birthday.

The dining-room was very bright in a most attractive color scheme of red—showing elaborate Valentine decorations in showers of heart effects. There were thirty guests at the table, all children or grandchildren and the reunion was a very happy one.

In the evening many friends of the family called to offer congratulations on the happy seventy-first birthday. There was singing and elaborate refreshments were served. Later in the evening there was a jolly "Virginia reel" led by Mr. Walter Laymance and his mother, the latter "treading a measure" with all the enthusiasm of her younger days. Among those present were Mr. Joseph Laymance, the Misses Laymance, Mr. Walter Laymance, Mrs. Robinson, James and Walter Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Laymance, Walter Laymance, Mr. and Mrs. Page, Mr. Rice, Mrs. A. D. Thompson, Miss Thompson, Miss Conners, Doctor and Mrs. Charles R. Rowe, Mrs. Chester, the Misses Chester, Mr. and Mrs. Cram, Mr. Herbert Cram and many others.

DATES FOR COMING WEEK.

Among the notable social dates of next week, are the bridge parties planned by Mrs. Frank Watson and Mrs. Edward Gibson and the large reception to be given at the Whitney home.

The Edward Gibsons have a beautiful home on Central avenue in Alameda, and Mrs. Gibson is entertaining her cousin from the East, Mrs. Elliott Bright.

Miss Woodbury's card accompanied that of her sister, and they will entertain their guests on the afternoon of February 26th.

The Frank Watsons are now comfortably established in their new home, and one hears that it is a very artistic home with lovely views.

Mrs. Watson has sent out cards for next Thursday and bridge will offer the amusement of the afternoon. Mrs. Watson will entertain her friends at her new home on Van Buren avenue, and the afternoon promises to be one of the very interesting and leading social events of next week. Mrs. Watson will be assisted in receiving her guests by her sister, Miss Lucretia Mauvais, who is an interesting and very attractive girl.

THE WHITNEYS AT HOME.

The large "at home" of the week will be at the Whitney residence on Adeline street, for which Mrs. George E. Whitney and Miss Whitney have sent out cards this week.

The Whitneys are one of the oldest families in our city, and their friends include most of the representative people on our side of the bay. Mrs. Whitney comes from one of the old families whose name has stood for much in the annals of the nation and the Whitney home has always been the center of a circle of cultured friends.

Mrs. Whitney has always been very true to her old friends and the latter have a most sincere affection for her and for her daughters. So the "at home" means much more than the ordinary tea, for it means a re-union of many friends, who knew each other call. Plans will be formulated at the meeting for this (Friday) afternoon, and those who fully understand the need of the hour are hoping for an enthusiastic co-operation which will make the thorough cleaning of our city.

"Labor knocks at the golden gates of the morning," and it is for the women of the city to open the gates and welcome him.

Mrs. A. E. Nash, who will take part in the farce to be given next Tuesday afternoon at the Eben Club.

Miss Clara Chabot, the fiancée of Leon Boqueraz, and Miss Katherine Brown, who will take part in the society vaudeville next month for the benefit of Fibiola.

Mrs. Rochelle Whelan, who leaves shortly for a trip to Panama, where she will remain for several months.

TRELAWNEY OF THE WELLS.

"The most fashionable audience since the first" was the verdict passed on the house which assembled to greet "Trelawney of the Wells" which was given by amateurs for the benefit of the Woman's Exchange at the Alcazar Theatre across the bay on Monday night. The box office opened at 9 o'clock on Friday and by half past ten the last seat in the balcony had been sold. The boxes were apportioned by lot so that there was absolute fairness in the distribution and among the box holders were Mrs. M. H. de Young, Mrs. Thomas H. Williams, James D. Phelan, Mrs. Sussman, Mrs. Leon Soss, and Mrs. M. H. Hecht.

Mrs. de Young had as her guests Mrs. Edith Simpson, Miss Helen de Young, Miss Katharine de Young, M. H. de Young and Charles de Young. Mr. Phelan entertained Miss Phelan, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cooper, Miss Genevieve Harvey and J. Downey Harvey. Mrs. Thomas H. Williams had in her box, Mr. Williams, Mrs. E. L. G. Steele and Miss Muriel Steele. Mrs. Sussman, Mrs. Soss and Mrs. Hecht entertained family parties.

The gowns in the house were very beautiful as were the evening hats displayed in the boxes. In the audience were noted Mr. and Mrs. William Hinkley Taylor who were the guests of Mrs. S. S. Winslow who also entertained her brother, Harry Stetson, and his fiancée, Miss Brown. Almost everyone was in a theater party, Mrs. William Thomas entertained Mr. and Mrs. H. M. A. Miller. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clarence Breeden entertained Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Dutton. Mrs. William S. Porter had a party.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deering entertained Mr. and Mrs. Stebbins of Berkeley and Mr. Gustave Sutor. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Centry were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Boyteaux. Mr. Lloyd Baldwin had a party which included Miss Edith Barry and Mrs. Berry. Miss McEnery had a party which included her niece, Miss Isabelle McLaughlin. Mr. and Mrs. John D. Spreckels had in their party Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holbrook and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton. The G. W. McNears of Oakland had a large party. Mr. and Mrs. Willard Brown, Mrs. Worthington Ames and Mrs. E. S. Preston, for need a theater party. Mr. and Mrs. W. Hellmann Jr., entertained a large family party.

After the play, everyone went or tried to go to the Pompeian room in Tait's. Many tables had been reserved for a fortnight but everyone felt in, took the tables belonging to other people and some waited half an hour before they could be seated. Tait said it would have taken a dozen policemen to keep back the crowd and he took refuge in the kitchen so as not to hear the protests of the angry ones whose tables had been taken. Four hundred and eighty-two people took supper in a Pompeian room, which was so crowded that you could not see beyond one table. It was simply a sea of heads.

Anyway, it was a great night for the Exchange, for the performers and for the audience. Much has been said concerning the performance. The play was not well chosen—so much may as well be conceded. The play was not a success when handled by professionals and was soon dropped for that reason. It dwindles off to an anti-climax, and so is tiresome at the end. But the first two acts are most interesting and the pretty costumes are always beautiful. One rather believes that the amateurs chose this vehicle because of the delightful costuming.

Mrs. Frederick McNear was the Rose Trelawney of the cast, and though she looked perfectly charming she was not nearly as well cast as Mrs. E. Lynne, in "Lady Windermere's Fan." She pitched her voice too high, which, indeed, was true of several other performers. She was at her best in the second act. Miss Constance de Young, who had the long scene part, rather carried off the honors with an immensely vivacious performance. Miss de Young has great dramatic talent and romped through her part with thorough enjoyment. Her voice, too, was a little shrill, for all the performers had evidently been warned and warned again about getting their voices over the footlights. Mrs. H. McD. Spencer was exceedingly good as was Mrs. Mark Gerstle in the little character part of the decayed tragedy queen and Mrs. Nat Messer as Miss Trufalgar Gower. All of the men were good, but Joseph O. Tobin, Billy Smith and Allan Dunn divided the honors.

Frank Mathieu, who coached the production, deserves every credit, for there was not a hitch, nobody was prompted and all the stage business went through with neatness and dispatch. There were some amusing contretemps, most of them on account of the difficulties experienced by the ladies in managing their hoops. On one occasion the crinoline worn by Mrs. Spencer pushed aside the chair on which the lady was about to sit, with the result that she subsided gracefully on the floor, making a "cheese," as the children say. At another time one of the doors stuck and the lady who sought to make her exit managed to squeeze through, but as she did so her hoops swung up behind, revealing a choice glimpse of embroidered pantaloons, white stockings crossed with neat black velvet ribbons and other bits of lingerie.

THE IRWIN BALL.

The Gaiety Club dance on Tuesday evening was given by Miss Helen Irwin in the ballroom of her handsome home. The same evening Mr. and Mrs. Irwin entertained forty guests at bridge on the drawing-room floor of the house and the juvenile and senior parties supped together. There were ten bridge tables and among the players were Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. J. Atherton, Mr. and Mrs. William Hinkley Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Scherwin, Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, E. W. Hopkins, Mrs. Crockett and Mr. and Mrs. Mountford Willson.

DINNERS OF THE WEEK.

A number of dinners have been given by the young set this week, at most of which Miss Hyde-Smith and her fiancée, Mr. Dillingham, of Honolulu, have been the complimented guests. Among the hostesses were Miss Helen Baker, the Misses Newhall and Miss Helene Irwin. Miss Irwin and Miss Newhall are among the bridesmaids chosen by Miss Hyde-Smith.

There were many dinners on Thursday evening, all preceding the last Greenway ball. Among the hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Calhoun, who gave a large dinner at the Fairmont. Most of their guests were from the Burlingame set, who had come up for the ball.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. William Minter gave a large dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Calhoun and last week they gave a dinner in honor of Miss Helen Parker, one of the winter's debutantes, among their guests being the Misses Martha and Julia Calhoun.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Pillsbury gave a dinner on Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor of Boston, who are visiting in California. Mr. Taylor is Mrs. Pillsbury's father. On Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Evan S. Pillsbury gave a dinner of thirty covers at the Fairmont Hotel in the gray room, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor being again the complimented guests.

Mr. William Bourn gave a large dinner at the Fairmont this week, his sister, Miss Bourn, presiding as hostess, and Mrs. N. G. Kittle being the complimented guest. Mr. Bourn leaves next week for New York, where he will join his wife and daughter, and whence he may go abroad with them in the spring.

These dinners were in addition to at least fifty dinners given on Monday night before the amateur performance of "Trelawney." Indeed, this has been the most remarkable season for dinner giving that San Francisco has ever known, and the end is not yet. The indications are that dinners and bridge will go right on during Lent.

BRIDGE PARTIES OF THE WEEK.

Mrs. Horace Davis gave a large and handsome bridge on Saturday, and the prizes were very beautiful, and after he game the players adjourned to a handsomely decorated tea table, where faint refreshments were served. Mrs. George Moore and Mrs. Frank Deering poured tea.

Mrs. George Toy entertained several tables of players last week, as did Mrs. Somers. Mrs. Alexander Heyne-unn entertained twelve guests at luncheon and bridge, and Mrs. Henry L. Dodge gave a very large bridge party on Thursday of this week. Mrs. Montegio gave a small bridge party on Monday, and cards are out for several large parties next week, among the hostesses being Mrs. Maurice Casey, Mrs. J. Leroy Nickel, Mrs. James C. Jordan and Miss Amy Gunn.

OAKLAND BRIDGE PARTIES.

Besides the big evening tournament, Mrs. Louise Gage entertained sixteen guests at luncheon and bridge at the Hotel Carlton in Berkeley on Tuesday. Mrs. Alexander entertained three tables of bridge on Wednesday in honor of Miss Marietta Havens, and cards are out for a bridge party which Mrs. Frank Watson will give on Thursday of next week.

MAD WOMEN HERMITS

Recluse Sleeps With 30 Dead Cat Hanging Over Her Head

A woman hermit invariably excites much public interest.

At the time, the English papers were full of the case of the Cornish woman hermit, who was discovered wandering on the cliffs near End's End. She was quite a young woman, and, although clothed in rags, was plainly of gentle birth. Her hands were small, her face refined, and she spoke well. At first she refused to give her name to the police, who arrested her on a charge of vagrancy. She was placed in Penance workhouse, but a week later caused a second sensation by completely disappearing.

More recently a woman was found wandering in the streets of Maudslough, an old lady in a long white mantel, a white sunbonnet, and a pair of sandals. When taken to the workhouse, she told the doctor that she was a believer in the open-air life.

For months she had been wandering over the country, sleeping in the open air. No matter what the weather, she never sought shelter at night, but slept under the skies.

The cottagers gave her food for the asking, and she declared that, as a result of this treatment she was perfectly healthy. But why she had adopted this strange method of life was not discovered.

Still more strange was the case of "Miss Macdougall," who, about five years ago, took up her abode on the beach of the Western Coast of Scotland, near Alnamuddy. There she lived all the summer.

She was a woman of about forty, and evidently had a little money, for she bought bread and meat, which she cooked on a fireplace of stones. All day she sat on the beach knitting.

She had magnificent red hair, which was an object of delight to artists. Every day she took a dip in the sea, no matter how cold or windy the weather.

Although preferring to lead this curiously lonely existence, Miss Macdougall was not so much a hermit that she refused to speak to people. She said that she had suffered severely from rheumatism, and had adopted this open-air life as a cure.

Two of the most celebrated of women hermits were the well-known "Ladies of Langollen." They were Miss Emsbury and Lady Eleanor Butler, Irish ladies of wealth, who left their old home because they were plagued by fortune hunters.

They settled at Plas Newydd, near Langollen, in a tiny cottage for the rest of their lives.

Another elderly Parisian woman, who has lived alone for a great many years at Buttes Chaumont, and who is the daughter of a high functionary under the late Empire, has made a name for herself. The whole house is full of unmyriad creatures, and even if their mistress did not prefer a lonely life, she certainly would not get any one to share her abode. Each night she surrounds her chair with a circle of water, and plays gently on a piano set on a trap and the long-legged, hairy insects run from every corner of the room to the water, and the black, outside the charmed circle, is flock with them. But one discord, and they all scamper back to their dark retreats.

A year or two ago three died at Darlington, N. J., a woman who had become famous through her extraordinary, best-known woman in the State. Although in perfect health, she had neither seen, nor been seen by anyone for more than twenty years. She was a woman of wealth and refinement but of curious temper. It is said that the reason why she turned recluse was simply that she overheard a slighting remark made upon her personal appearance by a woman whom she had considered to be her friend.

Many give themselves up to pets of one kind or another. There was the celebrated "Lady of the cats," who lived on a fifth floor near the Jardin des Plantes, in Paris, and who kept from twenty to thirty cats.

When the cats died she hung them round her bed, each with a piece of paper pinned on it, stating its name and age.

Nearly fifty were so preserved.

HAREM WOMEN HAVE MANY LIBERTIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Dr. Mary Mills Patrick, president of the American College for Girls in Constantinople, in an interview said that Turkish women have greater privileges than American women.

"Although the Turkish women are socially shut up, although they are obliged to veil themselves before men, they have certain liberties which women of other nationalities would seem not to possess," she said.

"The women of the harem is not the stupid, oppressed creature she is depicted. In many cases she is independent to a remarkable degree; is clever, brilliant and has great influence in affairs. She has vastly more privileges than the public generally supposes. She is more cultured, more intellectual, more advanced in every way than is generally known."

'Moleosophy' Is New Craze

On the other side of the Atlantic curious fads spring up, flourish and fade with the coming and going of the seasons. Just now "moleosophy" has the call in London. It is an occult science, slightly related to palmistry, and consisting of reading one's character and forecasting one's fate or future by the moles one may possess.

There are many curious things about moles, those who have studied the subject tell us. For example, if you have a mole on the upper eyelid of the brow, you are almost certain to have another on the right arm, just under the elbow, while if you have one on the left brow, you will probably find it follow under the lower left rib.

Let us take the first example, which is the mole in the center of the brow. If you have a mole in the center of the brow, it means an unquiet and troubled youth and more or less adversity until middle age. A mole in the center of a woman's brow indicates a poor husband, and a mole on the left side of the brow indicates the prospect of a brilliant money.

The woman with such a mole may not be beautiful, but she will have many pleasures in life. She will have a complete mastery of her own mind, and a keen sense of humor, and she will possess a quick tongue, and will have few friends.

She is advised to wear sapphires, presumably because of the fact that she is seriously warned against marrying a gentleman with a mole under his right eye. The woman with a mole on the right lower rib is sure to marry a foolhardy, but the comfortable condition is in this that the foolhardy will be a devoted and faithful husband.

MOLES AFFECT MARRIAGE. But the most important of the moles is the left brow and another just under the left shoulder-blade, if the mole be black, it is considered to indicate a sentence of imprisonment and a long term of years.

A young man about to marry should avoid the woman with a mole on the left lower rib, because it indicates "a great calamity when she is just 30, which will make her most furious, with a desire to kill her own husband."

The mole on the lower left wrist will have a peevish nature, and the lady with the mole on her left wrist will run great danger of death from a contagious disease.

If a woman has a mole on the lower corner of her face, she must be very careful on the 11th and 14th of the winter months, and she should be quite sure always to wear rubies.

HOW FAR SHOULD A WOMAN GO TO PROTECT LOVED ONES

How far should a woman go to protect her loved ones? What is the limit of the sacrifices she should make, or is there a limit, even death?

For the best thought, contained in less than 200 words, in answer to these questions, THE TRIBUNE will pay $10. This contest is open to all women readers of THE TRIBUNE and will close March 1.

To have contributors considered they must be written on one side of the paper, with name and address given.

Address all communications to the editor of the Woman's Page, THE TRIBUNE, Oakland, Cal.

I don't see why the thought predominates that a woman "ought" to give her life for another.

A woman has a right to preserve her life, and she is neither criminal nor lacking in love in doing so.

When a helping hand is placed in its mother's arms for the first time, an untold love sweeps through every fiber of her being and as the years go by, that love never weakens.

Yet many a child has grown up and perished in flames before the mother, without an effort on her part to save it.

She may have been perished with fear. I don't believe that because the woman on the tramp let her lover fall to the ground proved she did not love him.

Physically she may have been a coward. Undoubtedly she would have allowed her name to have been dragged through the mud to save him from the scaffold.

A woman "ought" to go as far to protect her loved ones as the law commands. We cannot measure our strength, physically or mentally by that of another.

"GOSUA"

VALUE OF OLD THINGS

I cannot understand the people who prefer everything to be brand new who have no special treasures they cherish in secret, and who make no favorites among their possessions.

A battered book, an old-fashioned ornament, may be the center of a hundred associations, but even this weaving of associations, this forming of ties which inanimate things, is becoming less common now that everybody lives in boxes and trunks and we are always shifting from place to place. I remember in the bonnet of a elderly old lady nodding in the place of honor, and filled with velvet, an ordinary-looking nose adorned with a conventional design of roses, and having the words "Greeting from Niagara" straggling around it in gilt lettering. It had been given to her by an old nurse when she was five years old, and the first present she had ever received, and she had kept it through the years in memory of the delight the simple gift caused her. I struck this little act of hers because it occurred to me as a tonic, prompted by that noblest quality—constancy.

A woman blessed with the faculty of saying or doing the right thing at the right minute is bound to be a great help to her husband. The woman who can make herself indispensable to her husband as his social monitor has many pleasures which her less careful sisters miss. The woman who is forever quoting clever sayings of her husband is one of the biggest bores that is inflicted on the public, but the wife who knows when to drop a hint that counts is the one that is really clever.

Princesses Trained In Useful Trades

In these days of democracy and unconventional life is, perhaps, not very surprising to learn that the Duke Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein, holding to the belief that every girl should be able to earn her own living in case of emergency, has caused his daughters to be trained in various occupations. Princess Victoria Adelaide, who married the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, holds the diploma of the Royal School of Cookery in Berlin; Princess Alexandra, Victoria's eldest daughter, is a qualified hospital nurse; Princess Adelaide has a certificate for kindergarten teaching; and Princess Caroline Mathilde is an expert typist and writer of shorthand.
